

On February 7 at 7:00 pm
Joyner Library will host

Stephen Burt

in the exhibit space on the second floor.

Stephen Burt is Professor of English at Harvard. His writings on poets and poetry appear regularly in The Nation, the London Review of Books, Boston Review, and other journals in Britain and America. His next book of poems, Belmont, will appear from Graywolf Press in 2013.

Burt wrote his second book about another poet-critic, Randall Jarrell, who settled in North Carolina. Some of Jarrell's books and papers were recently acquired by Special Collections, where they are now available for study.

On his visit here, Burt will read from his own poetry and answer questions about the creative relationship between poetry and criticism.
